

Junior Miss Will Start Thursday

"Junior Miss," scintillating comedy on adolescence, will begin its three-night run Thursday night at 8:30 in the Little Theater. Nadine McNeill and Barbara Retchless are cast in the leading roles of Judy Graves, 14-year-old main character in the story, and Fuffy Adams, her friend and confidante.

In addition to the three evening performances, there will be a matinee at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon.

Tickets for the four performances are on sale in the Speech office, room 159. Student admission is 35 cents; general admission, 60 cents. All tickets for the matinee will be 35 cents.

The comedy is based on some sub-deb sketches by Sally Benson which appeared in the New Yorker. It was first produced on Broadway in the Fall of 1941 under the direction of Moss Hart. It was an instantaneous hit.

The set for the play is finished, and all lines learned, according to Mr. J. Wendell Johnson, director. Three more rehearsals are scheduled to put the final polish on the production.

John Calderwood and Ruth Bryce play Grace and Harry Graves, Judy's parents; Beverly Baird, her sister, Lois; Dan Weck, J. B. Curtis, Graves' boss; Gayle Maphet, Ellen Curtis, his daughter; and Roxana Hildreth, Hilda, the maid.

Hal Nichol is cast as Willis Reynolds; Willard Hillyer as Barlow Adams. Jim Schaar is cast in the part of Merrill Feurbach; Dave Webster as Sterling Brown, and Barney Kukolsky as Albert Kunody. Bruce McNeill will play Tommy Arbuckle and Dale Bower, Haskell Cummings.

The props committee, busy searching for a spittoon, a deerhead, confetti, New Year's hats and noise makers, a Christmas tree, not to mention a Cape Cod barometer, during the past couple of weeks, have been lucky and enterprising enough to obtain all, or almost all, the required articles. The stage is set!

Shown above is Nadine McNeill in her leading role as Judy Graves in the play, "Junior Miss," ready for a date while two of her admirers, played by Jim Schaar and Dave Webster, look on. "Junior Miss" will be presented at 8:30 p. m. in the Little Theater March 7, 8, and 9 and at a matinee at 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

SAN JOSE PLAYERS SCHEDULE TRYOUTS FOR YEAR'S PLAY

Scripts for "Tonight We Improvise," comedy to be presented as the annual San Jose Players' production May 2, 3, and 4 in the Little Theater, are on reserve in the Library today. Tryouts for the play are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, March 13 and 14, at 4 o'clock in the Little Theater.

No previous experience is necessary. Mr. James Clancy of the speech faculty will direct the production. There are about 40 parts, many of them very small, according to Mr. Clancy.

"Tonight We Improvise" is a comedy whose plot is concerned with the difference between the real and unreal, the question of when a person is his real self, when he is "acting," or when he is "acting," or when he is not. It is a different play, particularly in the way of presentation, in that its action goes right on during intermission, in the audience and in the lobby. Some of the members of the audience even have speeches during the play.

Five years ago "Henry IV" by the same author, Luigi Pirandello, was produced at State, also under the direction of Mr. Clancy.

Social Groups Give Dance Saturday

Members of fraternities and sororities and their guests will dance to the music of Ben Watkins Saturday night at the annual Interfraternity-society semi-formal dance.

Fraternity and sorority members will trek to the Capitola Ballroom for the evening. The theme—"Back in the Swing"—will be carried out in decorations, with each fraternity and sorority being represented by an individual poster.

Co-chairmen for Saturday night's affair are Edwina Scilacci and Wes Nunes. Decorations are being done by Phi Kappa Pi and Gamma Phi, under the direction of Lois Mendenhall and Jerry Brown.

Allenian society is in charge of refreshments, and bids are being handled by Alpha Pi Omega under the direction of Jim Daley. Sappho society is in charge of the flowers, with a committee headed by Hillis Parrish and Edwina Scilacci.

The dance is open only to fraternity and sorority members and their guests.

CAL POLY'S QUEEN TO BE FROM STATE

A queen from San Jose State will reign over the Student Body of California Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo for a year, according to a decision made at yesterday's Student Council meeting.

A letter from Robert Kennedy, director of publications at Cal Poly, explained that the queen will be crowned at Poly Royal, "Only country fair on a college campus in the United States," the weekend of May 3.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Jani Hagerty, Phillis Forward, Emerson Arends, and Bill McFarlane were appointed to work on a committee to establish rules and procedure for the contest. A cooperative arrangement should be worked out, Kennedy stated, as has been done in previous years when queens from San Francisco State and Fresno State have reigned.

SPARDI GRAS

A magazine featuring pictures of Spardi Gras and preparation for it will be a souvenir of this year's spring carnival. A professional photographer will be delegated to take shots of action and interest.

The magazine, which will sell for 25 cents, will be used for publicity, so that Life or some publication may be induced to visit Spardi Gras in 1947.

The letter from Spardi Gras chairman, George Milias advising organizations about concessions has not been sent as the Daily announced yesterday. The instructions will be received today, announced Milias.

Attention

A meeting of the Junior class has been called for today at 12:30 in room 20, announces the class president, George Milias.

The important question to be decided is whether to hold the prom out of town or in San Jose.

All class members should plan to attend.

ZONING PETITION IS TURNED DOWN BY CITY COUNCIL

Petition for the re-zoning of four blocks on Twelfth and Thirteenth streets for multiple dwellings, mainly for college students, was denied last night by the city council at its weekly meeting.

The petition, which was first drawn by college students, was a move to alleviate the housing situation by making the houses in that area available for large groups of students by re-zoning the area from R1 and R2 zones to R3.

The council members denied the petition, with the assurance that any families living in this area may take in boarders and veterans and their wives to help relieve the situation. The main objection to the plan was that fraternity and sorority houses would cause noise in an otherwise quiet district.

Dean Paul M. Pitman, representing the school, pointed out that the present housing situation is not just temporary, but steadily growing worse, and that sooner or later the council would have to take definite measures for re-zoning.

Red Cross Drive To Begin On Monday

Less than a week away is the beginning of the annual campus Red Cross drive, scheduled to start on Monday, March 11 and continue through Friday, March 15. The national drive began last Friday, March 1 and will end on March 31.

No Red Cross assembly, like those held the last two years, is being planned for this year. Instead there will be a rally in the Quad at noon on Wednesday, March 13. There will be booths in the Quad and Library arch to receive contributions.

In charge of the drive for faculty and student contributions to the Red Cross fund are Mr. Oowen Broyles, economics instructor and Pat Dunlavy, Student Body treasurer. Jackie George has been named co-chairman of the student drive to assist Miss Dunlavy.

Arrangements are being made with organizations for the handling of contributions, according to Miss Dunlavy. Final plans which will be released later this week are being made for the receiving of both faculty and student contributions.

Journalism Head Publishes Articles

Mr. Dwight Bentel, journalism department head, received word yesterday that the seventh of his magazine articles was published since January.

Two of the articles have been reprinted from the original publication into digest magazines. "Cartoonists' Errors," first ran in the professional journalism magazine, "Editor and Publisher" and later appeared in "National Digest." A survey of the newspaper industry was written by Mr. Bentel for the "Collier Publications Yearbook" and was later run in "Magazine Digest."

Other articles Mr. Bentel has written include a story on Frans Weisblatt, American war correspondent; the vocation of news photography for a special journalistic publication of Quill and Scroll magazine; a story about William Randolph Hearst; and an article on Journalism education in the Journal of the American Society of Journalism, School Administrators.

ENGLISH MAJOR WINS CONTEST

Mrs. Annahrae White, San Jose State English major, was named first prize winner for the month of February in the monthly poetry competition conducted by the English department of Mills college.

Mrs. White's name was announced over station KYA's weekly radio poetry program last Saturday evening. The program is conducted in conjunction with the competition, and may be heard every Saturday at 7 o'clock over station KYA.

Mrs. White, who is also a member of Pegasus, literary honor society, wrote the poem as an assignment in Dr. James O. Wood's class in contemporary poetry. The poem was entitled "Peace."

Competition in this monthly poetry contest is open to all and a prize of $10 is awarded each month to the winner.

PHOTOS TAKEN FOR MAGAZINE

Students and "profs" stopped and started yesterday, cameramen vied for vantage points, and townspeople looked on in disbelief as Ted Bowers, nattily garbed in Prince Albert haberdashery, steered his top-heavy little 1914 electric sedan over the campus lawns, along the walks, and among groups of between-class smokers congregated before the gates of the Quad.

Although Ted has used his antique autos (he has five of them) for publicity stunts on occasion, this was not one of the occasions. Rather, he was keeping his appointment with Photographer Gordon Martin for pictures to illustrate an article in the new campus magazine, scheduled to make its initial appearance on Washington Square in about two weeks.

Tentatively titled, "Voices of the Past," the article will deal with one of Bowers' other hobbies, that of collecting and studying the recorded song and music of another generation.

Other material recently submitted for publication in the student magazine are a humorous short story by Jean Grenbeaux titled "Raymond, the Elephant Who Remembered Like People," and "The Warrior Returns," a humorous essay by Veteran Virgil "Speed" Young. Roland Smith, French language student, has written a special review of the Iota Delta Phi (French society's) play, "La Poudre Aux Yeux," presented during the winter quarter.

State Coed Assaulted

San Jose State coeds can take warning from an occurrence of Sunday night, when a woman student was slugged on the chin and knocked to the sidewalk on S. Seventh street near San Fernando by a man described by the victim as short and stocky.

Miss Johanna Barmettler reported the incident to the police who started an immediate search. The man fled when she screamed, according to Miss Barmettler.

The Traffic Accident Menace

A large number of the 25,000 or more lives that will be lost this year in traffic accidents could be saved, police chiefs of cities across the land have asserted.

Returns from a poll announced recently by the Street and Traffic Safety Lighting Bureau's office of information services showed that 96 percent of the police officials believe adequate street lighting can reduce the number of traffic accidents and that 71.5 percent consider that their own cities do not have adequate lighting from the standpoint of traffic safety.

Figures were based on replies to questions directed to police chiefs of all cities in the United States having a population of 10,000 or over.

National statistics show that almost two-thirds of the fatal traffic accidents occur at night when there is but one-third the volume of traffic.

Increasingly conscious of this alarming increase, public safety officials are concentrating on the causes for night accidents. The police chiefs who attempted to estimate the possible reduction of night traffic accident which would be effected if traffic arteries were adequately lighted gave opinions ranging from 5 percent up to 80 percent and a few higher. The 38 percent of replies giving high estimates came largely from cities which are having experience with street lights designed for present traffic conditions.

A Utah cited nine traffic fatalities during one year before improved street lights were installed, and one in the four years since. A Washington State city reported a 73 percent decrease in traffic fatalities following installation of adequate street lighting.

Public apathy on unnecessary accidents and death does not prevail in all cities, however. The percentage of cities reported in the poll to have definite plans for initiating a street lighting program is almost exactly equal to that of the cities without plans. The others are giving some thought to street lighting, but say they have no actual improvement plans.

What are we doing?

IOTA DELTA PHI VISITS CONSUL

Ten members of Iota Delta Phi, French honor society, were the only group of undergraduate students present at an afternoon reception at the Pacific Heights home of M. Jaques Baeyens, the French Consul General of France.

The reception was held in honor of M. Vercors, noted French author, who recently arrived in the United States. The students were acquainted with M. Vercors' "Les Silences de la Mer" which was read last year in one of Dr. A. B. Gregory's French literature classes.

Among the other notables who attended the reception were Dr. Donald Tresidder, president of Stanford university; Dr. Robert Sproul, president of the University of California; Dr. White, president of Mills college; Dr. Mathurin Dondo, professor of French at the University of California; M. Guy Toffin, vice-consul of France; M. Darius Mihalud, French composer, and graduate students from the University of California and Mills college.

PROFESSORS ATTEND MEETING

Dr. E. H. Staffebach, education department head, attended a state-wide meeting in Santa Cruz Monday and Tuesday for city and county school supervisors.

Also attending were Dr. Harry Jensen and Dr. R. D. Willey of the education department faculty.

Dr. Staffebach appeared on the program both Monday and Tuesday. He participated on the panel discussion concerning the philosophy of supervision, and on the continuous professional education of teachers.

This supervisors meeting was conducted in conjunction with the Association of Supervisors of Child Welfare and Attendance, and was sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction.

LYCURGUS REVIVED; FLEES MUSEUM, OFFICIALS REVEAL

Museum officials in New York City announced late last night that Lycurgus, centuries-old living Greek mummy recently discovered in suspended animation in the musty Spartan catacombs, has regained his faculties, temporarily lost through dehydration, and has disappeared from the museum.

Discovered February 17 by American archaeologists exploring subterranean vaults in ancient Sparta, the diminutive Greek had been rushed to this country for observation and a series of treatments which, it was hoped, would restore him to his original proportions and stimulate normal metabolism.

That the treatment was successful was proved last night when the patient, rising from the bath tub where he had been soaking since last Tuesday, gathered together his armored pants and shin guards, helmet and javelin, and disappeared from the museum.

An explanation for Lycurgus' leaving was offered by the museum curator, who reported finding a farewell note, signed "Gus," carved in Greek characters on the door. In the note Lycurgus said that he was "sick and tired of the Big City" and that he was "going home to Sparta where I belong."

Museum authorities, who expressed deep concern for Lycurgus' well-being, pointed out that the newly rejuvenated Spartan may wander for days before he learns that he is in the "Big City" of New York, and not Athens, as he believes.

CCF TO SEE MOVIE

"Thy Will Be Done," a movie dealing with present day problems in China, will be attended by CCF'ers today instead of their regular meeting. The missionary movie will be shown at 12:15 in room L210.

Today is CCF's missionary day, the reason for the groups' attending the movie. They will meet in room 155 at 12 o'clock and go to the Library together.

Other CCF activities this week include a regular meeting Wednesday in room 157 at noon, Bible study under the direction of Doug Neff Thursday noon, and "Hymn-espionage" led by Mel Sanders from 12 to 1 Friday. Saturday the group will have a picnic at Alum Rock park and will attend the "Youth for Christ Rally" at the Civic auditorium in the evening.

BIBLE STUDY OPEN TO SJS

An Inter-Bible discussion group open to San Jose State students has been formed under the auspices of the Bible college. The purpose of the group is to prove the inspirational value of the Bible.

The first meeting of the group took place yesterday evening, with the topic of discussion "Archaeology Proving the Bible," led by Gertrude McCormick. "Indestructibility of the Bible" will be the second topic of discussion, directed by Chuck Richards and will be held March 10.

Royal Barber is chairman of the series, which will number 20 in all, and are being held at the Bible college, 306 South Fifth street.

The meetings are entirely non-denominational and all students are invited to attend any of the talks. "Modern Science in Harmony with the Scriptures" and many other interesting subjects will be investigated during the series.

Flowers, Gardens Are Subject Of Spring Exhibit In Library

By WALT CRANOR

The time has once again rolled around to the season of the year when everyone goes out into the garage and starts to look for the rake and hoe. Doubtless, now that the war is over many people have sworn that they will never more turn that hard, rocky soil in their back yards for the sake of a few carrots and many blisters.

Nevertheless, there are still people with the "back to the soil" feeling, and it is these people who will be most interested in the exhibition of books now on display in the Library.

GARDENS NEEDED

The exhibit, however, was not meant for these people alone. President Truman, in a recent address to the nation, related the serious measures which would have to be undertaken by the people of the United States in order to give aid to the stricken countries of Europe. He emphasized the continuance of the Victory Garden.

Miss Maude Coleman, Art Librarian, said that because of these two facts, Victory gardens are still of great importance, and it is the time of year when people start thinking of gardening, she chose gardening as a subject for the exhibit.

The exhibit has many good books on gardening, both vegetable and flower, besides pamphlets about the need for the continuance of victory gardens. There are also several books about how to preserve and store food, in case the garden has a bumper crop.

ILLUSTRATIONS

Besides several interesting books on flower gardening, there are some pictures of various flowers, hand painted and very lifelike. Upon close observation it is discovered that the titles of these pictures are in French but, French or English, a rose is still a rose.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By MARGARET MOORE

So far there are eighteen contributors to the student magazine which will be published soon. With hopes to covering a wide variety of interests, the ed and staff have collected short stories, features, music, and photographs, not to mention the ads which are profitable.

The short stories range from fantasy to realism, from allegory to humor. Try "Raymond, the Elephant Who Remembered Like People" for the latter. La Fontaine-Grenbeaux turned it out.

Pat Bandettini has been preparing manuscripts of the Revelries music for publication and students who enjoyed the music will be able to try it themselves.

Mr. Bentel, equipped with a bad cold and a loud speaker, yesterday startled members of this news organ with a terrific blast. Not quite a sneeze, but resembling it, the "chief" mentioned that he merely wanted to call us to attention.

Earlier in the day he experimented with the alarm bell in

Ted Bowers' Rauch and Lang electric which was parked near the "Pub" office prior to having its picture taken.

While we are on a subject close to home, we'd like to boast of being unique. We are the only ones on the staff who have yet to view Jack the Printer's etching which hangs in the basement of his printshop. Our curiosity is overwhelming—but we are determined to remain unique.

Finals are encroaching on all this spring-time bliss. Already students are busy spending their Saturdays in the labs over in the Science building or wandering around the stacks in the lib. Some of us at least wish that maybe we could concentrate on something besides the new warmth of the sun on the cement steps and the lawns. We wish that the darn grass didn't smell quite so sweet as we lay around on it.

But the sweet comes with the bitter. We'll get a whole week of Spring vacation to enjoy nature in—but it'll probably freeze then.

SPORTLIGHT

By DAN WECK

The Sportlite is today focussed on one of San Jose State's all time great athletes, and one of the youngest coaches on the Pacific Coast, Wilbur V. Hubbard.

"Bill" as he has been known these last 20 years around this campus, came to San Jose in 1925, and in the three years in which he was a student here he earned 12 varsity letters and made a truly great name for himself in the four principal sports, football, track, basketball, and baseball. Seldom as his type of ability, brains and drive been equalled on any Spartan team, and it was while he was a student here that San Jose State College began to earn a reputation.

"BILL" MEETS "DUD"

After receiving his teaching credential from SJSC, Hubbard went to Stanford, where he completed his studies in physical education to earn both his bachelor's and master's degrees by 1930. His first teaching assignment was to Menlo High school, where one of the biggest things to affect San Jose State occurred. At that time Menlo was running both the high school and the JC as one unit; while Bill was football coach at the high school, Dud DeGroot was the able coach at the JC. It was there that they learned to work together so well, and formed a memorable partnership which came to the Spartan campus in the fall of 1932.

From that time until the spring of 1940, the De Groot-Hubbard combination turned out "the team to beat" in the smaller colleges on the coast, which reached their height in the 1937-'38 and '39 seasons, when for three years straight, San Jose State was the highest scoring team in the nation.

TO ROCHESTER

In the Spring of '40 Bill and Dud went East to Rochester University, at Rochester, New York, where they took over the coaching position at a school that hadn't won very many games in the last few years and was going to drop the sport if they didn't do better. Rochester did considerably better, and for three seasons the coaches turned out winning teams. Then, in the summer of 1942, DeGroot was named Washington Redskins coach, and the two worked with that team through the '42 season.

Bill decided to return to collegiate ball, however, and was offered the head coaching spot at SJSC in the winter of 1942, which he quickly accepted. He was given the position of Pacific Coast scout for the Washington Redskins, and has been on the staff of that team during the last few summers.

GREAT COACHING FUTURE

Bill didn't have a great deal of luck with the 1942-'43 basketball team as he didn't have a great deal to choose from, losing most of his players to the service teams right through the season. In the '43-'44 season, Bill had no really good material for basketball, and a poor showing was made. The following year things looked up for a while, but with injuries and the draft, Bill was forced to add new men to the club throughout the season and, although better than the preceding year's club by far, it still wasn't quite good enough.

Then came Spring of '45 and there were enough available men around so spring practice could be held, but that was stopped by the health office and lack of an available physician. In August, however, the war ended suddenly, and in the fall season SJSC returned to the gridiron, although only with a freshman team. It was a good team and well coached, and it portended better teams to come.

INTRAMURAL TRACK MEET NEXT WEEK

Hidden track and field stars who are either too busy with school work, or who think they are not quite good enough to turn out for the varsity, will have a chance to show their talents in the forthcoming intramural track meet to be held Thursday and Friday of next week.

Athletic representatives from all of the four classes at San Jose State are to be represented in the meet. The two day sport spectacle will replace the Oakland Indoor Invitational that was previously scheduled for March 16. That meet was cancelled, and as a fill-in, the intramural track and field date was arranged.

TWO DAY RUN

On March 14 the following events are scheduled: 60 yard dash, 352 yard run, ¼ mile run, 120 high hurdles, shot put, pole vault, javelin, and the 440 yard walk.

The 440 yard walk is primarily for retired veterans and tired business men. It is a toe-heel jaunt in which running is not permitted.

The following day, these events will be held: 150 yard dash, 660 yard run, mile and a half run, 220 yard low hurdles, broad jump, discus, 440 and 880 yard relays.

The last two events on Friday, the 440 and 880 yard relays, will be composed of eight men each; that is, the four classes with an eight-man team entered. The men running can compete in both relays if they wish, but eight men have to make up the combine for each of the two relay events.

SIGN UP NOW

Those interested at all in this quadrangular meet are to sign up immediately with track Coach Bud Winter in the P.E. department.

Respective presidents of the four classes are encouraged to get their groups together and organize a formidable entry for this gigantic meet.

Spartan field will be the site of the meet which, by early indications, points to success.

JOB SHOP

The Health department needs someone to develop chest x-rays. An experienced person is preferred. See Miss Twombly, room 31.

TENTATIVE TRACK SCHEDULE RELEASED

By JERRY VROOM

Bud Winter, head track coach of the 1946 edition of Spartan thinclads, yesterday issued a tentative track schedule that his proteges will engage in the coming season.

The initial meeting for the Gold and White performers was to have been the Oakland Indoor Invitational, March 16, but that meet was cancelled over the past week-end. In the place of the Oakland melee, Winter will hold the annual San Jose interclass track meet Thursday and Friday, March 14 and 15.

FIRST MEET

March 23 presents an open date on the track calendar, but Winter has hopes of filling that day with a warm-up meet of some kind. First meet of the spring quarter that is definitely scheduled is the three way engagement between Santa Barbara, San Diego, and San Jose at Santa Barbara April 27.

Longest tentative trip is the Texas Relays attraction at Austin, Texas on April 6, but Winter will not attend that meet unless he has enough creditable performers on hand and in good shape that early in the quarter.

As usual, San Jose will take part in the annual colorful Fresno Relays in the Raisin city May 18. This meet is one of the biggest in the country and each attracts the finest cinder and field performers west of the Mississippi.

TIME TRIALS

Last night Coach Winter had a few time trials and this afternoon he will put a few more of his boys through a race against time to gain an idea on who is going to be the number one man in each event.

San Jose seems to be blessed with a number of fine sprint prospects this season, with Billy Rhyme leading the pack. Also showing great promise in the short distances are Bud Hooton and Art Beltrin.

TENTATIVE SCHEDULE

March 23, open.
March 30, San Diego Relays (tentative), San Diego.
April 6, Texas Relays (tentative), U. of Texas.
April 13, Stanford (tentative), here.
April 20, open.
